RUSSIAN FORCES JOIN THE ALLIES IN BALKAN ZONE

They Take the Place Which Greece Might Have Occupied.

VENIZELOS' DREAM SHATTERED

Venizelist Bulgarian Flanking Movement is Annoying the Entente Troops and Threatens to Seriously Interfere With Their Drive Through Balkans.

By Associated Press

ATHENS, July 31, (delayed by censor)—An initial brigade of Russian troops has arrived at Saloniki to join the Entente Allies in the fighting in the Balkans.

The arrival of the Russians has created a profound impression here. Even the Royalists, who have consistently opposed participation in the war by Greece on the side of the Entente Allies, seem almost stunned by the news that Russian troops had arrived to take part in the campaign, which, under other conditions, might have been taken by the Greek army.

The general feeling here is that the bringing in of Russian troops has dispelled definitely the dream of a greater Greece which was conceived a year and a half ago by the then premier, Venizelos, who carried Greece well on the way toward entrance in the war with the Entente Allies.

It is regarded as possible that the presence of Russian forces in Macedonia will effect a change in the attitude of Bulgaria.

In some quarters irritation is displayed at the recent foreign policy of the Greek government, which is said to have overlooked the interests of this nation.

After a conference of the French, British, Serbian and Russian commanders at Saloniki today, it was decided that the newly arrived Russian forces would take up positions with the Serbian troops on the southern frontier of Serbia.

The Serbo-Russian force was placed under a combined staff of which Crown Prince Alexander of Serbia is the nominal commander. The Russian general, Frederiekss, is in actual command.

ATHENS, via Paris, Aug. 22.—The occupation of Kastoria and Coryton by the Bulgarian troops is confirmed. News from an official source says that the German field marshal, August von Mackensen, is with the Bulgarians.

Kastoria is 25 miles south of Monastir on the extreme left of the Entente front in Macedonia. It lies about 30 miles southwest of Florina and its occupation indicates that the Bulgarians are pressing southward their movement on the Allied left flank.

LONDON, Aug. 22.—French troops have been fighting the Bulgarians in the vicinity of Seres since Sunday morning, says an Athens dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company. The Greek commander at Seres has called to arms all the reservists.

That the fighting is of a stubborn character is indicated in the fact that a large number of Greek soldiers have been killed.

PARIS, Aug. 22.—The fighting on the Saloniki front is becoming more general, says a Havas dispatch filed yesterday at Saloniki. In the Doiran section, Serbian troops have captured forts Kalmakadar and Cucurlu.

The heaviest fighting is on the front northeast of Saloniki on the left bank of the Struma river from Kavjala to Barakli. On the western end of the line hostilities are confined for the most part to artillery.

BERLIN, Aug. 22.—Official announcement is made by the Sofia war office that on August 18, the Bulgarian left wing began a general offensive advancing in the Struma valley, occupying Demi Hissar and establishing itself on the left bank of the Struma after repulsing the British and French near Seres.

PETROGRAD, Aug. 22.—Russian attacks in the Caucasus have gained further ground from the Turks, occupying a considerable territory west of Lake Van in Armenia, the war office announced today. On the main battle front in Russia and Galitia there is no change.

DOG TAX DOUBLED

Males Now Assessed $1 and Females $2 Each

At a meeting of the commissioners yesterday it was decided to double the dog tax for 1917, following the example set by many other counties of the state.

Male dogs will be taxed $1 each and females $2. The tax last year was 50 cents for males and $1 for females.

CONTRACT LET FOR NEW SCHOOL

Heating and Plumbing of Crawford Building is Awarded by the Board.

School Board held a session last night at which time the heating and plumbing contracts were awarded for the new Crawford school on the West Side. The heating contract went to the Columbus Heating Company of Columbus, Ohio., for $5,250. The only other bidder was the Stanton Heater Company, whose bid was $5,705.

There were three bids for the plumbing, the contract going to F. T. Evans for $2,988. William Sellers bid $3,444.70 and Stahl Plumbing Company, $3,617.66. The board elected to use John Douglas fixtures in preference to Standard.

The Johnson Service Company system of heat regulation will be used. Its cost is included in the bid.

Contractors Laurence & Critchfield of Somerset filed their bond of $137,000, with the American Surety Company as security. The contractors at first objected to giving a surety company bond, but at the recommendation of Solicitor H. C. May, the board insisted on a bond of that kind, and went even further in specifying the company with which the contractors must do business, a rather unusual proceedding. It brought from Director Hetzel last night a statement to effect that a prominent attorney, in whom the board places a good bit of confidence, was of opinion that the board would get better service from a trust company bond, such as the contractors preferred to give, than a surety bond. Unfortunately for the contractors, they had already executed the type of bond demanded by the board, and with the company which the directors specified. The bond was accepted without further comment.

TOWN SWELTERS

Mercury Very Conservative, But Old Sol Is Not Bashful.

While Pittsburg swelters under a temperature of 96 degrees and other places in this section record even higher figures, Connellsville enjoyed comparatively mild weather yesterday with a maximum of 92 degrees. This was the figure recorded by the West Penn thermometer, which is always conservative, never running amuck like others do, either in extremely cold or excessively hot weather.

The minimum was 70, making the day as a whole as hot as any this season, the mean temperature being 81.

The extreme heat came to a climax with an electrical storm about 8 o'clock at night. Vivid flashes of lightning and almost constant rumbles of thunder seemed to forecast a big downpour but the rain that followed was comparatively light. Showers had been predicted for today but they came earlier, thus permitting a fine day for the Oakford Park outing.

PLAGUE GAINS

New York Has 118 New Cases in Last 24 Hours.

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—Every borough in Greater New Yok reported a slight gain in the epidemic of infantile paralysis today. Health officials, however, explained that this increase was to be expected on Tuesday owing to the over Sunday delay in obtaining reports.

During the 24 hours ending at 10 o'clock the plague killed 39 children and 118 were stricken. During the preceding 24 hours 33 children died and 92 new cases were reported.

FIND BODY IN BUSHES

Unidentified Man Found Dead Along Lincoln Highway.

Mystery surrounds the finding of a man's body along the Lincoln Highway on the other side of Bigelow Heights, about noon Sunday. The corpse had four bullet holes in the neck and the man evidently had been dead some time.

The Somerset county officials are investigating. The man was dressed in a gray suit, silk shirt and silk sox. Nothing was found on the body that would assist in identification. A finger had been mutilated in removing a ring from it. A revolver lying nearby had one chamber empty.

Report German Ship Sunk.

LONDON, Aug. 22—A British official announcement this afternoon says it is believed a German battle ship of the Nassau class has been sunk by the British submarine E-22.

GERMANY SENDS FAMOUS GENERALS TO HOLD SOMME LINE AGAINST ALLIES' ATTACKS

GEN. VON GALLWITZ (MOUNTED) AND GEN. VON MACKENSEN

Unofficial reports from France say that to Field Marshall von Mackensen has been given the task of defending the Somme front against the French and British attacks. A Paris statement asserted that to this mainstay of German tactics, next to von Hindenburg, has been assigned the supreme command on the whole west front with the exception of the Verdun region, where the German crown prince remains in charge. With Mackensen there have also been shifted to the west front, to act immediately under his orders, Generals von Arnim and von Gallwitz, his lieutenants in the 1915 drive into Russia and in the subsequent Servian campaign. General von Gallwitz is said to have been placed in command of the lines in the Champagne and in the Argonne.

CABINET MEMBERS CONFIDENT ROADS WILL QUIT FIGHT

Following Conference With President They Predict Settlement.

RAILROADS DISCUSS PROGRAM

Not Yet Ready to Meet President, and There Is No Indication They Will Accept His Plan to Prevent Strike by Granting Major Demand of Men.

By Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—While the railroad executives were working today on a counter proposal to President Wilson's plan for averting the threatened railway strike, the Cabinet went over the situation fully and confidence was expressed by members that in the end the railroads would accept the President's plan. What assurances the Cabinet had to go on for such a conclusion were not disclosed.

Cabinet members agreed that it was not feasible to hurry the railroad executives into a decision, as they had many things to consider.

The counter proposal is expected to be the next step, but there is no outward indication today of when it would be taken.

At 10 o'clock this morning the men went into a meeting which was attended by the leaders of all four brotherhoods. No special purpose was attached to it, and the leaders said it was just to keep the men together. A statement in reply to the arguments of the railroad executives on the question of arbitration was being prepared by the leaders and probably will be issued for publication tomorrow. The brotherhood officials describe the situation as unchanged.

The railroad executives made a formal announcement that consideration of the situation had been turned over to a committee of eight and that no conclusion had been reached. The following were announced as members of the committee which will work on President Wilson's proposal and make a report to the assembled executives.

Hale Holden, Burlington; W. W. Atterbury, Pennsylvania; Fairfax Harrison, Southern; Robert S. Lovett, Union Pacific; E. P. Ripley, Santa Fe; A. H. Smith, New York Central; Frank Trumbull, Chesapeake & Ohio; Daniel Willard, Baltimore & Ohio.

While the sub-committee was working the executives got in touch with their boards of directors. It was understood that a reply might be ready for President Wilson tonight or tomorrow. In administration circles it was said there was hope for a settlement. The exact nature of the proposal to be submitted to President Wilson was not revealed but from the fact that the executives were in communication with their boards of directors the conclusion was drawn that it concerns the concession of the eight hour day.

One suggestion understood to be under consideration was the submission of the collateral issues to the Interstate Commerce Commission or a provision for making permanent the commission of investigation suggested by President Wilson.

The brotherhood meeting did nothing and adjourned until 3 o'clock this afternoon.

An invitation from vice president Marshall to all of the representatives to visit the Senate was accepted.

NO BOOST IN GARBAGE RATE

Contractor Artis is Told to Make Business Men Pay Price Fixed by Ordinance.

At a meeting of council last night it was reported that a team of mules had been purchased from the H. C. Frick Coke Company for the garbage company and that another team would be secured as soon as a suitable one is found. This will give the collectors two additional wagons, making four in all.

Councilman Pryce reported that no revision in rates would be necessary, inasmuch as the collectors were not getting the maximum rate permitted under the ordinance. Collector Walter Artis admitted that only one business firm is paying the maximum rate of $5 a month for daily collections of garbage and refuse. He was told to raise his rates in proportion to the service rendered and that council and the Board of Health would back him in collecting his money. The residence rates are all right, Mr. Pryce declared. The collector is to notify all householders to place garbage cans at convenient places on the premises so that the drivers can get them; none are to be permitted to remain in cellars.

Duggan & Miller will lend the garbage collector a wagon so that no delay may be caused by waiting to get a new one.

COUNCIL STARTS J. DUGGAN AFTER WATER COMPANY

OLD SUIT OF 1908 IS REVIVED

West Side Councilman Urges Aggressive Action to Force Purchase of the Plant; O'Connor Pleads for Paving of First Street, West Side.

Back in 1908, the borough of Connellsville instituted suit in the county courts to determine the value of the Connellsville Water Company property and appointed an arbitrator to meet with a similar appointee of the company to appraise it and fix a price. Last night city council named John Duggan arbitrator, in place of Worth Kilpatrick, and instructed him "to proceed without delay to bring about a satisfactory conclusion to Connellsville's demands for arbitration for the purchase of the waterworks plant."

The resolution authorizing this was introduced by M. B. Pryce and L. L. West after Mr. Duggan had aired the matter at some length. He produced copies of the bill in equity prepared by the borough in 1908 and the water company's answer, filed at that time. The latter he termed "a ridiculous lot of assertions."

Mr. Duggan declared that "a certain element" always wanted to steer council up against the Public Service Commission in its case against the water company, whereas he was of the opinion that the matter could be determined right here "in our own local courts."

Mr. Duggan said that perhaps Connellsville's arbitrator, appointed April 21, 1908, had not been aggressive enough to force the company to name its representative and continue negotiations. A short time after he made this assertion, Mr. Duggan was named to this position, with instruction to be "aggressive."

B. O'Connor made a plea to council to pave First street, West Side.

"We are willing to pay for it; you don't need any bonds," he declared. He also asked that some attention be given this street, "even if it is on the West Side." Mr. O'Connor suggested that the street department put some slag in the holes and cut down the weeds at certain places. Seeds from these, he said, blow on his property and caused a big crop of weeds there. He declared there was no need of sewers on First street, inasmuch as the residents already had connections to the river.

Steps to pave East Murphy avenue and First street are to be made, Councilman Duggan declared, as soon as Solicitor Higbee can make arrangements to issue short term bonds to cover the cost.

A meeting is to be held next week with Charles Davidson of the Cottage State Hospital trustees relative to opening Tenth street from Apple street, so that children may have a shorter route to the Third Ward school.

Council announced its attention to require a report from the solicitor's department as to the progress of collections for paving assessments.

A plan to construct a new sewer on the South Side, using old brick taken from streets which were repaved, was outlined by Mr. Duggan.

All councilmen were present. Another meeting will be held on Wednesday, August 30.

Truck Runs Away.

A Ford delivery truck drifted away from its moorings on Main street this morning and backed gracefully into the pavement near the corner of Main and Arch streets. It was not damaged.

MANY ILLEGALLY HELD AS INSANE

Somerset Court Finds That Commitments to Asylum Have Not Been Lawful.

Special to The Courier.

SOMERSET, Pa. Aug. 22.—How alleged insane patients for years have been "railroaded" to the Somerset county asylum for the feeble mined was laid bare by Judge William H. Ruppel in court here this afternoon. In examining the papers on which Milton Critchfield, a well known Black township farmer, was recently committed to the institution, the court discovered that Critchfield was unlawfully detained. The act of 1883, on which the charge against Critchfield was based, requires that the commitment shall be accompanied by certificates from two physicians of at least five years' practise. In the Critchfield case Judge Ruppel found that these certificates were sworn to five days after the commitment was issued, the commitment having been dated the 12th of the month and the physicians' affidavits on the 17th.

It is believed that dozens of inmates of the local asylum were committed there without warrant of law, inasmuch as the custom of many years' standing was followed in the Critchfield case. This custom, Judge Ruppel rules, is a flagrant violation of the statute mentioned above. The Critchfield case came before the court on a writ of habeas corpus. Judge Ruppel order the discharge of the prisoner forthwith.

Friends of Critchfield, who came to the county seat by the score to testify that he is sane, allege that "railroading" him to the madhouse was one of the worst outrages ever perpetrated in the county. Whether he will be arrested again is problematical. It is said that he was sent to the asylum to satisfy the whim of a prospective father-in-law. The affidavit on which the commitment was based was sworn to by David W. Snyder, a neighbor of Critchfield. When Snyder's, pretty school teacher daughter, Miss Edna Snyder, became the object of Critchfield's attentions, her father became indignant, it seems. She taught the "home" school and Snyder contends that Critchfield's attentions annoyed her. Critchfield is 37 years old, a prosperous farmer. The girl was sent to the California State Normal School. She was graduated from that institution last spring. Critchfield's troubles began following her return home. He was arrested on a charge of pointing firearms and surety of the peace, the prosecutor being the girl's father. Securing his freedom on bail for appearance at the September term of court, he was again arrested and lodged in the county hospital. Critchfield's friends assert that his commitment to the hospital for the insane culminated a conspiracy to deprive him of his liberty. They allege that the insanity plot resulted when Snyder discovered that he had no evidence to convict Critchfield on the gun-toting charge.

The fact that patients are "railroaded" to the Somerset institution is of interest to a large section of the state. Inmates from neighboring counties are cared for here. Among these counties are Cambria, Westmoreland, Fayette, Indiana, and Washington.

STOPS ROAD WORK

Leisenring Paving Again Held Up and Contractor is Annoyed.

Work has again been stopped on the Leisenring road and Contractor John Duggan is angry. He insists that if he had not been unnecessarily hampered by this and that he would have finished this contract two months ago.

The West Penn is now doing some work with its tracks, which, Mr. Duggan declares, should have been done some time ago so that he would not be compelled to stop at a time when good weather makes it possible to go ahead with all possible speed.

West Penn officials say if any work is being held up it is due to the failure of the Trotter Water Company to get its pipes moved. Duggan is doing the water company's work.

AUTO HITS BUGGY

Jolts the Vehicle and Then Keeps Going at Fast Clip.

A buggy occupied by Walter Harry and Orland Leighty was struck by an automobile on the West Side last night and badly damaged. The driver of the car, whose engine was stalled, cranked it so quickly and hastened away that there was no chance to get an explanation.

Harry and Leighty had the buggy along the curb in front of Beighley's drug store on Main street and were talking to Attorney John Duggan, Jr., when the Ford touring car, said to belong to a Dawson man, struck it from the rear. The buggy was knocked 15 feet and even the harness was torn from the horse.

WILL BOOST BRIDGE.

Big Delegation is Going to View on Friday.

A big delegation will go to Fayette on Friday morning when the county viewers will look over the proposed site for the new bridge over the Yough river. The site of the bridge will be viewed at 10 o'clock Friday morning, and the route of the proposed county road at 11 o'clock on the same day.

P. J. Flynn is trying to organize an automobile procession, both to the Friday view, and to the hearing at Uniontown on Monday. He is meeting with success.

16 SPECIAL CARS TAKE HUNDREDS TO MERCHANTS' PICNIC

SURROUNDING TOWNS GO ALONG

Two Cars from Dunbar and One from Leisenring are Well Filled, While South Connellsville is Well Represented; Tickets in Large Demand.

Sixteen cars carrying approximately 1,500 persons left Connellsville this morning for Oakford Park for the Merchants' Picnic. In their wake was a baggage car with several tons of eatables on board. With 1,500 people fortified with lots to eat and facing the prospect of a delightful day at the pretty amusement resort, there could be no doubt as to the success of the outing.

Connellsville was closed up almost as tight as on Sunday; tighter in some respects, for stores which keep open Sundays were closed for the picnic. A few fruit and cigar stores were the only ones open and this was because all of their competitors would not agree to close.

The first car left the West Penn station at 7:45 and the others followed at frequent intervals. One car from Leisenring had on board over 100 from that section, the South Connellsville car had a fairly good load, while one of the Dunbar cars was well-filled and the other only partly so. From 7:30 o'clock on, W. P. Schenck, secretary of the Business & Professional Men's association, did a land office business at an improvised ticket office on Main street.

Baskets were checked by a committee at the waiting room and later all were loaded upon a specially prepared baggage car. A shelf of board had been built over each row of seats in a closed car, thus providing extra space in which to stack the lunch baskets and other picnic outfits. This car followed the last special, which left for the park at 9:30 o'clock.

Not a few persons left for Oakford in automobiles and some picnickers went over on the regular cars. The sports program began at 10 o'clock and continued until noon.

The sports program attracted much interest and there was no lack of contestants. The results of the events follow:

50-Yard dash for boys—George, Seaton, first; James Soisson, Frank Craft, Edward Oglevee, William Richter.

TO STAGE BIG BATTLE.

Some Scrap When Water Battlers Meet Here for Championship.

Efforts to arrange all details to the satisfaction of both teams have succeeded to such degree that Meyersdale and Stowe Township water battle teams will meet for the championship of Western Pennsylvania at Connellsville on Wednesday, September 6. Meyersdale was the challenger at the recent firemen's convention at Grassport, having defeated all comers, but through a disagreement the final battle was not fought.

The two teams are to fight here for the championship, a side bet of $200, and a cash prize.

Hog Prices Boosted.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 22.—Hogs reached $11.40 a hundred in the market here today, $3 higher than for the corresponding day of last year. Increased consumption and decreased production were assigned by packing companies as the cause of the high prices.

BOYS OF TENTH ARE FLOODED OUT WHEN TEXAS SKIES WEEP

Three to Six Inches of Water Inundates Camp Stewart.

BARE FEET ARE ALL THE STYLE

Shoes are So Wet They Cannot be Worn Next Day; College Boys Will Get Away September 1, and Married Men's Papers Are on the Move.

By O. R. Herwick, Staff Correspondent.

CAMP STEWART, El Paso, Aug. 18. Texas has not yet entirely exhausted her supply of surprises for the boys from Pennsylvania, for she sprung a new one last night in the shape of a flood. The boys had been informed that the water from the mountains went on a rampage at times and had prepared by digging a trench around the entire regiment about four feet deep and six feet wide but they were not even then prepared for what happened last night. The rain started along about 5 o'clock.

Camp Stewart was entirely submerged in from three to six inches of water and later when the moon came out the three Y. M. C. A. buildings of the Seventh Division looked like ships at sea. They were entirely surrounded by water and their lights were burning brightly and the long narrow buildings gave them every appearance of a large ship. There were few dry tents in the Tenth, although some of the boys had high embankments thrown up around them. Division headquarters looked as though it had been built in a lake as the ground is a little low there. The boys moved out of the wet tents into the dryer ones and some of them slept right out in the mess.

There is an awful mess in camp this morning, the ground being so hard it does not take up the water and the interior of some of the tents are like hog wallows. The boys are busy fixing things up and when the sun gets a few hours on the wet ground things will be in pretty good shape again. About half the boys are working in their bare feet this morning as the water got over their shoe tops and they cannot get their shoes on this morning.

There were many amusing incidents during the flood, as nobody knew how long it was going to continue and in some cases it was almost up to the cots when it did stop. There was some thunder and lightning, but nothing compared with that of Tuesday night. The boys had been wishing for some time for the rainy season, but now they say they would be just as well satisfied without the rain.

The order came down yesterday from division headquarters for the return of all college students by September 1 and much hilarity was expressed on all sides. The students of the hospital corps, four of them, are all in the Marathon district and it is not known what they will do. They are Arthur Dart, Dewey Miller, Walter Rogers and William Martray. It is supposed they will be returned with the rest of them. The order is mandatory.

The married men with dependents are getting their applications in rapidly now that the order for the return of the college boys has come, and it looks as if the army will be reduced considerably before long. No applications have yet been granted, as it takes some time to get them through. They have to go to Washington to be acted on. The latest rumor here is that the troops are to be kept here until December 31 or longer.

Regimental drill is now the order of the day and although the grounds are slimy this morning, the regiment is now out several miles from camp and your correspondent, together with Edgar Horner and George Broad, is with them out on the plain in the boiling sun with our hospital flag floating in the breeze waiting for someone to tramp in a hole or slip in the mire and sprain his ankle. Some job carrying them in on a litter, too, as we have no ambulance.

The first sergeant's tent in Company D looked like a river was running through it last night. It was right in line of a ditch.

The field bakeries back of the Tenth were started yesterday and will be furnishing bread tomorrow. All the bread is kept 24 hours before it is issued. There are 12 ovens built in four sections with a total capacity of 20,000 loaves of bread a day.

Arch McCormick wanted to build a raft last night. He said he did not want to take any chances. He is still figuring on it today.

Buck Smith is patiently waiting his affidavit from home. He says it can't come too soon for him. There are quite a few from Company D awaiting them too.

Edgar Horner had nothing on the rest of the boys last night; they all had their ponchos on.

There was some nice lot of shoes in camp this morning, the boys couldn't have gotten into them with a can opener.

Phil Swartzwelder found a tarantula on his clothes when he went to get them this morning. He chloroformed it and intends to preserve it in alcohol.

The boys of the hospital corps are spending a good part of their evenings at the Y. M. C. A. building. They have various amusements there and it is a good place to be.

The cavalry and artillery were paid yesterday and that revived the spirits of the Tenth boys. They have hopes of being paid some time now.

Herman Reiber is now wearing the white uniform of a baker, being with the new field bakery. Reiber was formerly in Company D's kitchen.

Ed Stock is going home, he says, just as soon as he can get his affidavits fixed up. William Brown is also after his affidavits as well as many more in Company D.

Bert Richey says he had the dryest tent in the regiment last night. Bert is some worker.

THREE ARE DIVORCED

Judge Reppert Issues Decrees Upon Suits of Injured Husbands.

Special to The Courier.

UNIONTOWN, Aug 22.—Elmer Byers, of Brownsville, testified that on January 12, 1914, he saw his wife coming from the home of Charles Price in McKees Rocks. She went home, he said, and when he told her she was doing wrong, she tried to spit in his face. Judge E. M. Reppert today signed a decree granting Byers a divorce from Mary Byers. Bernard J. Sheridan testified that he went to the Byers' home and saw Mrs. Byers and Price acting improperly. Mr. and Mrs. Byers were married March 20, 1907, at Sunbury.

Mrs. Augusta McLean, of Thompson No. 1, was granted a divorce by Judge Reppert from James A. McLean. They were married May 10, 1905, at Jones Mills. Desertion January 14, 1913, was alleged.

Steve Reezey, a miner of South Brownsville, testified that when he was working at night, he came home and saw John Kellar leave his wife's room. Kellar was a boarder at the Reezey home, and he left and Mrs. Reezey is said to have followed him. Judge Reppert granted Reezey a divorce from Mrs. Mary Reezey. They were married August 27, 1900, at Szenro, Austria-Hungary.

GUARDSMEN HAVE KICK

Some Reported to Have Received Only $6 In Two Months.

By Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—Senator Weeks received an appeal today from Massachusetts constituents on behalf of some of the state troops on the Mexican border who, it is declared, have received only $6 each since they went to the border more than two months ago.

"I am informed," said Senator Weeks, "that enlisted men of the Massachusetts light artillery have received only $6 since they went to the border. I also am informed that the same applies to other Massachusetts and some of the Pennsylvania troops. I shall take the matter up with the War Department at once."

"Food Is Its Own Best Digestant"

"All too frequently, we prescribe medicines for patients who suffer from indigestion, when, as a matter of fact, what they actually need is a simple course of dietetic training, and the proper food-stuffs to train on.

"This is the famous 'reason' for the popularity of Grape-Nuts as an article of diet, viz., that it furnishes this very course of training for the digestion. It not only furnishes the natural diastase for the process of digestion, but it favors a return to normal digestive function because the firm, crisp kernels compel thorough mastication.

"One ought not to leave out of consideration the psychic element—the delicious treat to the palate afforded by a dish of Grape-Nuts and cream."

Why

Less mileage

No, Sir; mileage is not altogether a question of gas. Oil's gotta lot to do with it, you bet. Do you know that, in actual tests, cars have been known to yield as much as five additional miles per gallon of gas when the right lubricant was used? 'Sfact.

You oughta be getting that extra mileage, especially since it doesn't cost extra. There's one safe, sure way of taking figures off your gas and oil bill and putting them on the speedometer where they belong.

Use the combination—Atlantic Gas for fuel; Atlantic Motor Oils for lubrication. You can't beat that team anywhere.

Atlantic Polarine is THE oil for eight out of ten cars. The alternative is one of the other three principal oils—Atlantic "Light," Atlantic "Medium" or Atlantic "Heavy."

The reputation of the oldest and largest lubricant manufacturers in the world stands back of these four oils. Start using Atlantic Motor Oils today and note the difference in mileage.

Read up on this subject. We have published a handsome and comprehensive book about lubrication. It is free. Ask your garage for it. If they cannot supply you drop us a postal and the book will be sent you without charge.

TANLAC BOUGHT BY HAPPY MAN TO AID FRIEND

James Rainelli of Pittsburg Tells of Remarkable Restoration to Health.

"I came to tell you how well I feel and to buy a bottle of Tanlac for a friend of mine," said James Rainelli, of 25 Knox Ave., Pittsburg, Pa., to Mr. Carey, the Tanlac Man, at Heidenreich's Drug Store Pittsburg.

"Tanlac has done me so much good that I want every one to know it. I will always speak a good word for Tanlac as it not only is making me face the coming year happy and well, but I have the hapiness to know that I never will be sick again, because I have Tanlac to keep me well.

I never went any place, except to my work because I felt so bad all the time. My work was a terrible burden to me, beeause I was so sick all the time that I could hardly keep on my feet.

"I then tried Tanlac. To my surprise, the first few doses began to clear off my stomach and drive the poisons out of my system. My nerves are like iron, my bowels are regular, my stomach is well and I go around feeling good all the time."

ERIE COLLECTS ITS OWN GARBAGE AT A VERY SMALL OUTLAY

Municipal Enterprise Stands Families Only $1.60 a Year.

PRIVATE COLLECTIONS FAIL

McKeesport Has Also Abandoned Hope of Getting Satisfactory Service Through Contractors and is Doing Its Own Collections at Low Cost.

Garbage collection conducted by the municipality and paid for out of the funds of the city, has been found successful in Erie, according to J. Emmit Gross, superintendent of Parks and Public Property. Collections are made but once a week and each householder is compelled to drain and wrap the garbage. It is collected in tight steel tank wagons and hauled to a loading station where it is carried in railroad cars to the incinerating plant, four and a half miles from the center of the city.

The total cost for collection and disposal of garbage in Erie last year was $28,767 or $1.60 per family. Erie has a population of approximately 66,500, or more than five times that of Connellsville. On this basis municipal collection here should not cost more than $6,000 a year at the outset.

In McKeesport municipal collection of garbage was undertaken at the same time the city took over the garbage plant here. A satisfactory system has now been worked out, according to Conrad Holman, superintendent of Parks and Public Property. Garbage is collected from convenient places on the premises once a week, empty cans being left in place of the filled ones. Rubbish is collected at intervals of two or three weeks. An appropriation of $12,000 was made by the city at the beginning of the year to cover cost of garbage collection and disposal but this will not be sufficient this year because it was necessary to buy equipment. People are required to drain and wrap their garbage.

Wet garbage is the bugbear of Connellsville collectors. For instance, at a local club last week the driver complained to the steward that the garbage can was full of slop not garbage. The steward said he had no way of draining it. Wet garbage is much harder to handle than dry.

At the Theatres

THE PARRAMOUNT.

THE THOUSAND DOLLAR HUSBAND—Presenting Blanche Sweet the captivating screen star, and Gloria's Romance with Billie Burke, in the leading role, are todays attractions. In "A Thousand Dollar Husband," Miss Sweet plays the role of the naive unsophisticated servant girl, who through an access of unexpected good fortune suddenly becomes wealthy. The young man whom she has learned to love faces disgrace and poverty brought on by his own fault, when the girl comes to his rescue willing to sacrifice not only her money but her entire happiness to the salvation of the youth she loves. At first the latter accepts the offer without any thought of his own obligations in the matter. Gradually however he begins to realize that he owes something to the girl. The latter's views and character develops with her improved opportunities and this of course aids in the drawing together of the two young souls. Theodore Roberts endows a subordinate part in the story with his usual power and skill. Miss Sweet shows more cleverness than usual in the portrayal of a semi-comic character, while Tom Forman gives a pleasing rendition of a part which needed much skill to make it acceptable. Tomorrow Dorothy Gish, will be seen in "The Little School Ma'am," a Triangle production in five acts. Miss Gish makes a very sweet little school ma'am in this production, remarkable in more than one way. It offers her a splendid opportunity for the display of her peculiar talents.

SOISSON THEATRE.

"THE IRON HAND"—A five reel Red Feather feature with Hobart Bosworth in the leading role is the feature attraction at the Soisson Theatre today. Hobart Bosworth, who essays any role from a minister to a gangster with equal ease, appears in the "Iron Hand" as a political boss, first as a mere ward leader, but later as undisputed ruler of the entire city. A ward boss holding stern sway over his district is finally bested by his political enemy and sent to jail. He is released, shorn of his power. He is entrusted with the care of a little boy, son of his old pals. Unable to educate the child in the right way he places him in charge of a social worker. See the boy's outcome and also that of the political boss. "Unhand Me, Villian" a two reel L-KO burlesque comedy sublime, introduces Alice Howell in the part of a poor misguided newsgirl. It is one of the best L-KO comedies which has yet appeared. There is a race, a water jamboree, a burlesque melodrama and Alice Howell. "A Knight of the Night" a Laemmle drama with Hobart Benley. It is one which has the "real punch" in it. "Animated Weekly No. 32" contains such interesting topics as "Fun and Work on the Border" — "Building a Speedway"—"Deutschland on Home Dash,' and many others. Tomorrow the Bluebird feature "The Secret of the Swamp" in five reels with Myrtle Gonzalez.

TUESDAY EVENING, AUG. 22, 1916.

BOOST THE BRIDGE.

The borough of Glassport and its neighbor Wilson across the Monongahela river above McKeesport, gave such demonstrations the other day that left no doubt in the mind of any one present of their interest in the project to connect the two towns by a free bridge. When the viewers arrived on the ground they were met by large and enthusiastic crowds of citizens who pointed out the many advantages that would follow the construction of the bridge and presented facts in support of their contentions The city of McKeesport and adjacent communities which will be less directly benefited joined with their neighbors in booming the enterprise so energetically that the viewers were strongly impressed with the actual and real necessity for the bridge

This exhibition of a wide-awake community spirit offers a splendid example for Connellsville South Connellsville and Dunbar and the adjacent communities to show what they can do in speeding the Direct-to-Dunbar bridge movement on its way The viewers will meet on the premises on Friday of this week to inquire into the desirability or necessity for this structure Unless there is a large turnout of representative citizens of the sections most concerned, to present their claims and to point out the advantages to be gained by the construction of the bridge the viewers may be disposed to doubt that public sentiment favors this improvement with great earnestness and unanimity

The project is of real and vital necessity to a larger growth of this whole neighborhood and should have the active energetic support of every citizen It has been successfully progressed to the preliminary stage It will move forward or stop according as it is given the proper impetus or fails to receive it

A CRISIS IN COKE.

The Connellsville merchant coke operators face a crisis in their business The by product ovens under construction to supply demands for coke now being furnished by this region are beginning to come into service and their effect is much discussed So many conditions have arisen that it is not at all sure that the merchant operators of the Connellsville region are going to be put out of business What they lose in coke they promise to gain in coal In the meantime, it is interesting to note that down in the Alabama district the old beehive ovens are running pell mell and doing $5 coke The Daily Iron Trade comments on the coke situation in the following interesting fashion

"Rapidly the Connellsville coke trade is approaching the crux of a situation that has been coming along for some years Before snow flies it now seems certain, the coke market will have been able to digest actual facts and figures respecting itself which shall grow out of the by-product fuel complication Just what the outcome will be is any one's guess so far as coke prices in the open market go Just what curtailment of coke production itself will take place also cannot be gaged within reasonable limit While it may be just possible that only enough by-product coke will be made by the newly constructed ovens as well as those still to be completed to take place of the Connellsville beehive oven product formerly taken by the furnace consumers affected by the new oven erections still no one can say but that coke in even larger volume will be produced than the mere substitution Hence it may be that such oven construction may lead to additional blast furnace building stranger things have happened in the iron and steel business In any event however considerable quantities of Connellsville coal will be needed to eke out supplies of fuel obtained from other localities while it is certain a great deal of Connellsville coal will be shipped to mill site by-product ovens from Western Pennsylvania properties owned by the by-product oven owners It would seem therefore as a coal producing region the Connellsville district has a long and prosperous life ahead

"But it seems doubtful whether the Thompson idea of coal land values in as yet inaccessible regions from railroads, will endure Most likely not

The market has strengthened somewhat for furnace fuel Few furnaces are left unprotected by last half year contracts so that little prompt coke remains to be disposed of on the open market That is why few movements have been shown by the coke market of late Foundry fuel has remained steady right along

"Glancing into the Southern coke fields, it would seem as if the Virginia makers have about reached their limit on production, and then some Quotations have been steady in most fields and shipments have been about as desired In Alabama, a feature of the trade that has developed recently has been the rejuvenation of old beehive ovens in order to secure additional fuel production Quotations have kept right up, and in cases $5 a ton has been paid for fuel in an emergency. The Alabama coke makers appear to be well satisfied with present conditions When southwestern smelters get into the game again in old style tonnage rates the southern fuel makers will believe themselves prosperous beyond hopes glancing back several years

"Considerable evidence accumulates to indicate a pronounced movement in the pig iron market Buffalo dispatches indicate that fact strongly, corroborated by information in eastern dispatches Chicago also is in a better frame of mind and increased volume of inquiry is noted at St Louis and Cincinnati Another week will demonstrate just what is in this movement The furnacemen have hopes"

A POINTER IN BOOSTING.

Connellsville has shown itself to be enterprising and hustling on occasions but perhaps we have something yet to learn A news item printed in the daily press says

A unique campaign has just been brought to a successful close at Toronto O in which $37 770 was contributed by citizens for the purchase of a manufacturing site to be donated to Follansbee Brothers of Pittsburg who are back of a project to locate a new steel mill there The women and girls of the town raised $3 000 while school children collected another $1 000 by selling old papers and flowers The fund was raised in 10 days

It looks as if Connellsville has some resources in the boosting line never drawn upon which need only proper cultivation to yield handsome crops

Rann-dom Reels

By Howard L Rann

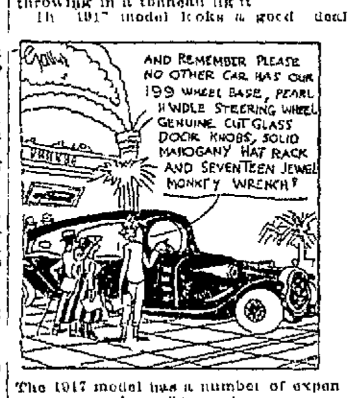

THE 1917 MODEL.

The 1917 model is a whole souled effort to make the owner of a new automobile which he had waited a few weeks and saved the price of four non skid tires This effort always proves a success and causes the garages of our country to be crowded with late purchasers who are looking for a chance to punch the interlining out of the proprietor

The 1917 model is usually brought out on the first of July in order that the man who bought at the old price on June 15th can enjoy the Fourth with a glad heart It requires true religion for a new driver to read a two page advertisement in three colors offering his car for $100 less money and offering to throw in a tire pump without falling on his knees and hoping that somebody will set the factory on fire in seven distinct spots More murder is committed at long distance by the practice of shortening the price and lengthening the wheel base of automobiles on the first of July than by the treatment of Americans in Mexico

Once in a while however some manufacturer who was caught in his stocking feet by the 1916 model raises the price of the 1917 model thereby causing the candid prospect who was waiting for a drop to utter a piercing yell of wrath This unfeeling act has created more anarchists than the steady upward flight of the gasoline schedule When a manufacturer raises the price it is always attributed to the battle of Verdun and the scarcity of transmission grease caps and is fully made up by adding a few inches of streamline body and throwing in a tonneau light

The 1917 model looks a good deal

The 1917 model has a number of expensive refinements

like the 1916 pattern but in reality they are not alike in anything except their appetite for gasoline lubricating oil and garage bills The 1917 model has a number of expensive refinements and is worth the money If fewer people would try to get a $2 000 worth of automobile for the price of a do blo shovel cultivator it would be easier to run a garage without contracting senile dementia The only man who gets stung in buying an automobile is the one who holds off in his wisdom until the price has vaulted into the top of an elm tree

The 1917 model is a source of joy to the dealer who has a hang over of ten cars bought the fall previous This enables him to give away a juicy slice of profit and also to wish that he had taken his wife's advice and remained on the home farm where the price of moss pork and veal calves would turn in more money than a merry go round at a Harvest Home picnic.

And what would I think if he filled me with zinc and old rusty nails by the ton? PRODUCTION OF PIG IRON IN FIRST HALF GREATEST YET MADE

Exceeds Record Same Period of 1915 by More Than 7,000,000 Tons.

STACKS IN BLAST NUMBER 344

By-Products Recovered Pay All the Costs of Coking and Leave a Nice Profit Besides; The Markets For By-Products Are Becoming Wider.

According to the report of the American Iron & Steel Institute, the pig-iron production of the United States for the first half of 1916 was 19,619,522 tons, a gain of nearly 2,000,000 tons over the second half of 1915 and a gain of nearly 7,400,000 tons compared with the first half of 1915.

This, the highest production of pig-iron ever recorded for a six months' period, was within 3,700,000 tons of the total production of 1914 which amounted to 23,332,244 tons.

On December 31, 1915, there were 310 furnaces in blast, while on June 30, 1916, 344 furnaces were in blast. Of the 167 stacks in Pennsylvania 132 were in blast as compared with 125 on December 31. Ohio had 67 active stacks out of a total of 76. Alabama the third largest iron producing state ran 31 of its 47 furnaces. Illinois had but one idle stack out of 24; New York 7 out of 27; Michigan 3 out of 14. All of Indiana's 10 furnaces were in operation. Virginia made the poorest showing with only 9 stacks out of 21 in blast. Wisconsin had 6 blowing out of a total of 8; Kentucky 4 out of 5. All of the 4 stacks in West Virginia were active. Four were active and 2 idle in Colorado. New Jersey ran 1 of its 5 stack, while Minnesota did as well as West Virginia by keeping all of its 3 stacks running. Massachusetts had one idle and one active stack.

By states Pennsylvania easily lead in production with an output of 8,286,076 tons. Ohio followed with 4,250,790 tons. Other states in order were: Illinois, 1,936,151 tons; Alabama, 1, 366,728 tons; New York and New Jersey grouped 1,214,037 tons; Indiana and Michigan grouped, 1,037,768 tons; Wisconsin and Minnesota, 417,342 tons; West Virginia, Kentucky and Mississippi, 268,859 tons; Maryland, 243,895 tons; Virginia, 202,777 tons; Missouri, Colorado, Oregon, Washington and California, 190,189 tons; Massachusetts and Connecticut, 4,700 tons.

Classified by fuels used the iron production was as follows: Coke, 10,347,935 tons; anthracite coal, 19,691 tons; charcoal, 191,986 tons. Michigan produced $132,637 tons of charcoal iron, Oregon 32,224 tons and the southern states, 21,149 tons.

The production of grades was as follows: Basic pig, 8,830,085 tons; Bessemer and low-phosphorus, 6,838,177 tons; foundry pig, 3,086,410 tons; malleable pig, 460,839 tons. forge pig, 169,306 tons; spiegeleisen and ferro-manganese, 189,046 tons; other grades, 44,6699 tons.

Of the total production of 19,619,522 tons, 13,859,137 tons were made for the makers use, while 5,7600,385 tons were made for sale.

Saved Her Daughter's Life.

"Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy saved my daughter's life when she had cholera morbus at the age of 14 months. She vomited every few minutes and we were unable to keep any medicine down long enough to benefit her until we gave her this remedy. The doctor being at our house I asked him what he thought about our using it, and he said as he was unable to do the child any good, I had better use it. The second dose she kept down and in a short time the bowels were checked and she improved rapidly after that," writes Mrs. Jennie Moyer, Lima, Ohio. Obtainable everywhere.—Adv.

AMERICAN CHICLE COMPANY

MAY INVEST COUNTY FUNDS

In Stock of the Proposed Across-Greene Railroad, if Law Permits.

Since the commissioners of Ohio county, West Virginia, have sold the stock held by the county in the Pennsylvania, Wheeling & Kentucky railroad, recently acquired by the Pennsylvania railroad, the use to which the funds shall be put is being considered.

At present the investment of a part of it in a juvenile detention home and the remainder to be used in subscribing to the capital stock of the Wheeling & Eastern railroad is the suggestion that meets with greatest favor. No action will be taken until a legal opinion is secured as to whether such expenditures can be made without first securing the assent of the voters to the proposition. This is now being considered by Fred O. Blue, State Tax Commissioner.

DICKERSON, RUN.

DICKERSON RUN, Aug. 22. — The Pittsburg & Lake Erie railroad continues making improvements between West Newton and Dickerson Run. New 100-pound rails are being laid, replacing 80 pound rails which have outlived their usefulness for main tracks on account of new and heavier equipment. The old rails which are being removed will be used on branches and for side tracks.

It has become necessary to enlarge the sand house since the Western Maryland engines lay over at Dickerson Run. The present building has been used for storing and drying sand and also as an oil house, but since the new oil house has been built the old one has been used for a storage house until two weeks ago, when the railroad masons and carpenters commenced tearing out the partition and reinforcing the sides with concrete and large sills and steel rods. The remodeling of this building will soon be completed and will hold 20 carloads of sand.

Turned Down Because of Lack of Training

It would surprise you to know the number of applicants for office positions who are turned down each year because they lack the training necessary to enable them to discharge the duties of the position they seek.

You may be intelligent, ambitious, energetic, well dressed—but the business man will accept no excuse for inefficiency. Unless you are able to prove your fitness for the position—business cannot use you.

The business man will not hire you simply because he wants office help of some sort. If he hires you it will be because he needs someone to do the kind of work that you have been trained to do exceedingly well.

Business houses have come to regard a business training as indispensable, and refuse to employ anyone who has not qualified to do the work he proposes to undertake.

The prestige and character of a Business School has a great deal to do with the success of its graduates, hence the importance of attending a school of worth and general business standing.

The Douglas Business College has been conducted upon honor and it merits the confidence of the public, which it serves. The best business firms in Western Pennsylvania depend upon us to supply their office help. They do this because they have learned that the Douglas College will not recommend an incompetent.

Let us tell you how we can help you to get a better position. Ask us today.

VERDUN AS SEEN BY A TELESCOPE

Bursting Shells Make Whole Valley Like Volcano.

FIRE OF FRENCH IS DEADLY

Perfect System of Opposing Forces Makes It Possible to Pour 1,000 Shells a Minute Upon Any Target. Range Finding an Interesting Problem, Mathematics Being Used.

There are few portions of any front that I have ever seen where one could gain more than an idea of a single detail of the operations Verdun is an exception, writes Stanley Washburn in the London Times. In a certain place carefully sheltered from view of the enemy was a dugout, and through the loophole of this peered the long range eye of one of the highest powered telescopes that it has ever been my privilege to look through. I could not have imagined that from a single spot one could see so many of the now famous points which have become synonymous with the defense of Verdun.

Down in the valley of the Meuse lay the town itself, whence, every few minutes, came the distant reverberation of a bursting shell. When one is in the town itself one sees little Unless a shell falls very near, one never sees it at all. But from our observation point one can see volcanoes of dust and black smoke shoot up here and there about the town, followed a little later by the belated sound of the report drifting up from the valley. Verdun itself is apparently hidden from the direct vision of the enemy, but ranges long ago corrected by aeroplanes have been established these many months It is questionable, however, how much check the gunners have on the target at present, since it has become unhealthy for the German aeroplanes to show themselves in this vicinity in the daytime.

The country is rolling in all directions and for the most part barren of forest or shelter except the very questionable protection that small villages afford. Through our glasses we can see the shells bursting in and about the village of Fleury, behind which we are told the French mustered for a counterattack against the Germans on Feb. 26 and nipped their advance way of Douaumont in the bud just a the moment when the Teutons believed their way to Verdun open before them. The village is already desolate from the German shell fire. A little to the north lies Vaux, and we can just see the ruins of the town. So powerful is the telescope that the piles of brick and the remaining walls stand out in clear cut detail.

The plain before us and every portion of the valley that lies beneath us is stripped of any sign of living thing. But for the continuous bursting of shells in all directions one might imagine that the whole landscape had been long since abandoned by human habitant. A little to the west of Vaux stands the sullen ridge of Douaumont fort, whose name has become famous throughout the world as the scene of some of the fiercest fighting which this war has produced.

Birdseye View of Mort Homme.

Down the western slope one can see the lines of the German trench, though the French line is hidden from our view by the crest of a ridge that intervenes. To the north lies the valley of the slow flowing Meuse. A bit to the west is the Mort Homme, that bloody slope which cost the lives of thousands.

Turn in any direction and one always sees in the air half a dozen shells bursting. Now it is a big shrapnel over Fleury, with its clouds of puffy, cotton-like smoke drifting off on the breeze while a second later with a crash like the explosion of a volcano, a shell aimed at Verdun tears up half an acre on the slope north of the town. The Germans are sending in large numbers of their 380's today, and their explosions on the slopes and crests of the hills resemble the sudden eruption of a volcano, while for many minutes afterward the craters steam and smoke like internal fires

Under our eyes, though we see them not, are neatly tucked away I know not how many of the lurking 75's and bigger guns The country is an ideal one for them to work in Every conspicuous object now in German hands has long since been definitely located and the range worked out to a nicety

AERIAL NAVIGATION.

Rousseau Thought It Might Come, but the Problem Stumped Him.

Like Leonardo da Vinci and Cyrano de Bergerac, Rousseau was haunted by the dream of aerial navigation. We read in his treatise: "Men walk on the earth, they sail on the water and swim in it. Is not the air an element, like the others? What business have the birds to shut us out of their premises while we are made welcome in those of the fishes?"

Rousseau took no stock in any theories propounded by the Darius Greens of his day. He sifted the matter for himself and thought it involved two problems. First, to find a body lighter than air, so that it would rise. He imagined that sooner or later such a body might present itself. There was no telling.

But what stumped him was his second problem—how to make that obliging body stop rising and how in creation to make it come down This was too tough a problem for Jean Jacques, and he wound up his book by admitting it.

BE FAIR WITH THE DOG.

Give It a Square Deal and It Will Repay You For Your Care.

Only muzzle a dog if it is absolutely necessary. The wearing of a muzzle tends to make dogs cross and snappish.

It does not prove that a dog has rabies or is mad because it froths at the mouth. It may have a sore throat or a fit.

Clipping the ears is a cruel and barbarous practice, wholly unnecessary, depriving the animal of its natural comfort and beauty and injuring its hearing.

If you must tie up the dog have the end of the chain secured to a ring on a long wire so that it can have the run of at least twenty or thirty feet.

Don't blame the dog for showing no ambition if it is overfed on meats and sweets. Its health and spirits will be of the best if it is given simple but substantial food and allowed the freedom of outdoor life.

Train the dog with firmness and fairness The animal is eager to learn what is wanted of it and when once it understands will follow instructions with almost human intelligence.—Our Dumb Animals.

"A Right and Lawful Rood."

An example of the old rough and ready methods of arriving at a measurement is the Elizabethan way of getting the "feet." Fulentia Leigh, who wrote on surveying, records that after service on Sunday sixteen men were stopped at the church door, just as they happened to come out, and drawn up in line, left foot to left foot. The length thus obtained was taken as "a right and lawful rood, to measure and survey the land with," and a sixteenth part of it as "a right and lawful foot." Although big and little men were thus roughly averaged against each other, the results naturally varied to some extent. Hence it is, as Shaw Sparrow notes in treating of this "rood" as the architectural "bay" which gives us the "bay window," that a bay is sometimes found to be rather less than sixteen feet of twelve inches.—London Chronicle.

To Hang a Skirt.

An easy way to hang a skirt by oneself is to put a piece of chalk in the opening of the dining table and push the table together so as to hold the chalk firmly. Then with the skirt on turn slowly around, chalking the skirt as you turn. This done, take the skirt off and with a yardstick mark off the same number of inches below the chalk line that you desire it to be. If carefully done you will have a beautifully hung skirt.

Red Cedar.

Red cedar chests, in which supplies of all kinds can be stored, but which are especially useful for things that moths like, can be bought in the shape of window seats With a few cushions they are made into a part of any room where they are placed. These chests are bound with brass and are made with good locks.

To Clean a Gas Range.

Take out all the parts, including the iron tops, the burners, etc. They will lift out easily. Place them in a tub or wash boiler and cover with very hot water. Dissolve half a cup of lye in the water and let them stand for an hour or so, or overnight would be better, if you can manage it Great care should be taken that the hands do not come in contact with the lye water. The head should be kept turned away from the two when the lye is turned into the water, as it is very disagreeable to get the fumes

If this is done once a month, or even once in two months, if there is not much cooking, the range will always be perfectly free from grease of any kind

If your oven turns rusty or smells musty, rub the interior with French chalk every few weeks. This will give it the appearance of an enameled oven. It is worth trying

CHAPTER IV.

Two days later about the middle of the forenoon Duane dragged the two horses up the last ascent of an exceedingly rough trail and found himself on top of the Rim Rock with a beautiful, green valley at his feet the yellow sluggish Rio Grande shining in the sun, and the great wild mountainous barren of Mexico stretching to the south

No wonder outlaws were safe in that wild refuge' Duane had spent the last two days climbing the roughest and most difficult trail he had ever seen From the looks of the descent he imagined the worst part of his travel was yet to come

The trail proved to be the kind that could not be descended slowly He kept dodging rocks which his horses loosed behind him And in a short time he reached and rode down the green retreat, wondering what would be his reception.

The valley was much larger than it had appeared from the high elevation Well watered green with grass and tree and farmed evidently by good hands it gave Duane a considerable surprise Horses and cattle were everywhere Every clump of cotton woods surrounded a small adobe house Duane saw Mexicans working in the fields and horsemen going to and fro Presently he passed a house bigger than the others with a porch attached A woman young and pretty he thought watched him from a door No one else appeared to notice him

Presently the trail widened into a road and that into a kind of square lined by a number of adobe and log buildings of rudest structure Within sight were horses dogs a couple of steers Mexican women with children and white men all of whom appeared to be doing nothing His advent created no interest until he rode up to the white men who were lolling in the shade of a house This place evidently was a store and saloon and from the inside came a lazy hum of voices

"Bust me if thet ain't Lukes hoss"

The others accorded their interest if not assent by rising to advance toward Duane.

'How about it Euchre? Ain't thet Lukes hoss' queried the first man

"I kin see your nose a mile off" replied the fellow called Euchre

"There ain't no doubt about thet then laughed another "fer Bosomer's nose is shore plain on the landscape."

These men liked the looks before Duane and as he coolly guarded them he thought they could have been recognized anywhere as desperadoes The man called Bosomer who had stepped forward had a forbidding face which showed yellow eyes an enormous nose and a skin the color of dust with a thatch of sandy hair

"Stranger who are you an where in the h—l did you git that hoss? he demanded His yellow eyes took in Stevens' horse then the weapons hung on the saddle and finally turned their vitiating hard light upward to Duane

Duane did not like the tone in which he had been addressed and he remained silent Something leaped inside of him and made his breast feel tight He recognized it as that strange emotion which had shot through him often of late and which had decided him to go out to the meeting with Bain Only now it was different, and more powerful

'Stranger who are you? asked another man somewhat more civilly

"My name's Duane replied Duane curtly

"An how'd you come by the hoss?

Duane answered briefly and his words were followed by a short silence during which the men looked at him Bosomer began to twist the ends of his beard

"Reckon he's dead all right or no hoss'd have his hoss an' guns,' presently said Euchre.

Duane looked him over from dusty worn out boots to his slouchy sombrero That look seemed to inflame Bosomer

"No I don't"

"Well even if you did I imagine that wouldn't stop Bosomer He's an ugly fellow Merely for your own sake I advise you to hit the trail

"Thanks But is that's all I'll stay" returned Duane Even as he spoke he felt that he did not know himself

Bosomer appeared at the door pushing men who tried to detain him and as he jumped clear of a last reaching hand he uttered a snarl like an angry dog Bland and the other outlaws quickly moved aside letting Duane stand alone When Bosomer saw Duane standing motionless and watchful a strange change passed quickly in him He halted in his tracks and as he did that the men who had followed him out piled over one another in their hurry to get to one side

Duane saw all the swift action felt intuitively the meaning of it and in Bosomer's sudden change of front The outlaw was lean and he had expected a shrinking or at least a frightened antagonist Duane knew he was neither He felt like iron and yet thrill after thrill ran through him The outlaw had come out to kill him And now though somewhat checked by the stand of a stranger he still meant to kill But he did no speak a word. He remained motionless for a long moment his eyes pale and steady his right hand like a claw

That instant gave Duane a power to read in his enemy's eyes the thought that preceded action But Duane did not want to kill another man Still he would have to fight and he decided to cripple Bosomer When Bosomer's hand moved Duane's gun was spouting fire Two shots only—both from Duane's gun—and the outlaw fell with his right arm shattered Bosomer cursed harshly and floundered in the dust trying to reach the gun with his left hand His comrades however seeing that Duane would not kill unless forced closed in upon Bosomer and prevented any further madness on his part

Of the outlaws present Euchre appeared to be the one most inclined to lend friendliness to curiosity and he led Duane and the horses away to a small adobe shed He led the horses in an open shed and removed their saddles Then gathering up Stevens weapons he invited his visitor to enter the house

It had two rooms—windows without coverings—bare floors One room contained blankets weapons saddles and bridles he office a stone fireplace rude table and bunch two banks a box cupboard and various blackened utensils

'Make yourself to home as long as you want to stay" said Euchre I ain't rich in the world's goods but I own what's here an' you're welcome

'Thanks I'll stay awhile and rest I'm pretty well played out replied Duane

Euchre gave him a keen glance

"Go ahead an' rest I'll take your horses to grass

Euchre left Duane alone in the house Duane relaxed then and mechanically he wiped the sweat from his face He was laboring under some kind of a spell or shock which did not pass off quickly When it had worn away he took off his coat and belt and made himself comfortable on the blankets And he had a thought that if he rested or slept what difference would it make on the morrow? No rest no sleep could change the gray outlook of the future He felt glad when Euchre came bustling in and for the first time he took notice of the outlaw

Euchre was old in years What little hair he had was gray his face lean shaven and full of wrinkles his eyes were half shut from long gazing through the sun and dust He stooped but his thin face denoted strength and endurance still unimpaired

COSTS AND PROFITS OF MAKING COKE BY THE RETORT PROCESS

As Shown by Typical Balance Sheet of Operation of 100 Oven Plant.

ON A 70% YIELD IS $2.88 A TON

Pennsylvania Easily Leads All Other States in the Production of all Grades; Ohio Second With Illinois and Alabama Next in Order of Rank.

In a paper before the Society of Chemical Industry T. C. Clarke has given considerable data showing the costs of operation of by-product coke oven plants and the receipts derived from the sale of the various by-products. The prices given for the latter are based upon the market of some months ago, before the present high figures had been reached, hence do not altogether represent conditions but will serve to show some of the possibilities of the industry.

Chemist Clarke called attention to the fact that in years gone by the surplus gas available from by-product coke ovens was guaranteed by oven builders to be 5,000 cubic feet per ton of coal coked, with 500 B.t.u. Modern plants yield 6,250 to 6,000 cubic feet surplus gas. This of course, would prevent any such heat results.

The oven size has gone from a capacity of 4.5 tons of coal to 13.5 tons, which seems to be about the standard. While it varies with different coals, an oven is generally about 17 to 22 inches wide, with a taper to facilitate pushing the coke. The height of the oven is about 10 feet and the length from 35 to 40 feet.

The cost of ovens has increased from about $7,500 to nearly $20,000 per per oven. This is easily explained by the increased weight of the materials entering into the construction, and the fact that the maintenance and conversion cost has been cut to well below 60 cents per ton of coal coked. Taking as an example coal around 28.5 per cent volatile matter, with the ordinary yield a typical balance sheet for a 100 oven plant of 13.5 tons per oven capacity on an 18-hour coking time would be as follows:

DAILY EXPENDITURE.

1,796 tons of coal, at $3 per ton	$5,298.00
Conversion cost, including depreciation, contingencies and all charges, except interest and administration: 80c per ton	1,059.60
Interest on investment of $2,000,000 at 5 per cent. $100,000 —22c per ton of coke, 1,236x22	271.92
Total	$6,629.52

RECEIPTS.

Tar, 7 gal. per ton of coal, at 1½c per gal.	$ 309.05
Sulphate, 1 per cent at $60 a ton	1,059.60
Gas, 6,000 cu. ft. at 10c	1,059.60
Benzol, 2½ gal. at 14c, or 20c less 6c conversion	356.20
Toluol, 0.3 of a gal. at 15c per gallon	70.47
Total	$3,004.01

This shows the cost of producing 1,236 net tons of coke to be $3,565.51, which on a yield of 70 per cent is $2.88 per ton, or less than the cost of a ton of coal. There has been produced in making the coke 10,500,000 cubic feet of surplus gas of 550 B.t.u. at 10c per 1,000 cubic feet and a uniform coke both physically and chemically, with depreciation and interest taken care of.

At present war prices owners of by-product coke ovens selling their benzol at 50c per gallon and their toluol at $4.50 per gallon, find their coke costs them nothing.

With the exception of the Semet-Solvay company, the benzol industry is in its infancy. Plants are being built in practically every coke oven installation since the war began, but the result after the war remains to be seen. Logically the first and greatest market for benzol will be as motor fuel.

Assuming the capacity of the old-type ovens at five tons of coal per day of 24 hours, and the larger ovens at 15 tons and getting a yield at 2½ gallons of 50 per cent benzol per ton we find the benzol production should be 84,900,000 gallons, or 2,694,000 barrels per year. Fear has been expressed that the sudden dumping on our markets after the war of 85,000,000 gallons of motor fuel would break the price badly and make a number of lean years for the coke-oven-benzol producer.

If 200,000 of the 300,000 Ford cars produced annually remain in this country, and have an average mileage of 5,000 per car and consume a gallon of gasoline for every 15 miles, their annual consumption will be 66,666,000 gallons. Since the benzol output, if all sold for motor spirits, only amounts to 84,990,000 gallons, and one make of car uses 66,666,000 gallons, with the increase in automobile production that the statistics show, it seems we are fortunate to have a new fuel coming on the market.

The production of tar in gallons in 1905 was 35,379,000; in 1910, 69,780,000 gallons, and when the various plants now built and building are in operation these figures will advance to 237,947,000 gallons of tar.

Sulphate of ammonia production in 1905 in the United States was 65,000 tons of 2,000 pounds in 1910, 116,000 tons. When the present ovens now built and building are operating the production will be about 340,000 tons. The price of these has been 2.5 cents per gallon for the tar, and for the sulphate of ammonia, around $60 a ton for the past ten years.

There are in operation or building 63 by-product coke-oven-plants with 8,900 ovens, practically all of them fitted for benzol recovery.

THE RIGHT OF FREE SPEECH

Has Been Raised Following the Granting of the Injunction in the Hooversville Strike.

The issuance by Judge W. H. Ruppel of Somerset of an injunction restraining the members of local union 3091 of the United Mine Workers from doing or saying anything unlawful in their efforts to prevent non-union men from working in the mines of the Hooversville district, has raised a new and interesting question.

Part of the campaign of the striking miners has been the publication of newspaper advertisements notifying the public that a strike is on at Hooversville, and requesting miners not to go there to work until the coal companies have complied with the demands of their former employes. It is contended that the injunction was designed to cover the advertising as one form of activity to be restrained. The strikers maintain that they were within their rights in promulgating the publicity campaign, although a strict construction of the enjoining order might bring this advertising under the ban placed upon parades and other forms of activity.

The strikers take the position that their whole campaign is predicated on the claims made in their advertisements. If enjoined from using the newspapers they assert the rights of free speech and a free press will be denied.

COMPENSATION APPEALS HELD UP

Decision of United States Supreme Court Is Needed to Determine Jurisdiction in Certain Cases.

The State Workmen's Compensation Board made public an opinion in which it is ordered that the appeals filed with the board involving questions of interstate commerce be placed on the postponed calendar and that all appeals hereafter filed involving such questions be held up until the Supreme Court of the United States shall have passed upon the conflict of jurisdiction between federal and state tribunals.

The conflict arises, Chairman McVey says in his opinion, from the fact that Congress by the Act of 1908 legislated as to the methods of litigation when both the employer and the injured employe were engaged in interstate commerce. The act of Congress applies solely, however, to employes of railroads. This legislation was enacted before any state created a compensation law. Since then 32 legislatures have provided methods of compensation for injured workmen.

In his opinion Chairman McKey argues that while Congress has the right to usurp the power of the state compensation board because of its right of regulation of interstate commerce, that it should not do so.

Chairman McVey shows by cases cited that every form of railroad activity has been included as part of interstate commerce in more than 500 decisions on the federal employers' liability act. Such being the case, Chairman McVey argues no railroad man can come under a State Workmen's Compensation law if Congress persists in occupying the field. This leads to the conclusion, Chairman McKey says, that Congress ought not to usurp the field and ought to repeal its present act of 1908. Chairman McKey states that in his opinion the Sutherland bill now pending in Congress would not bring the relief desired in cases involving interstate questions, and he makes the observation that the welfare of the vast army of railroad workers will be more promptly and thoroughly secured by allowing them to submit their claims to state tribunals than by any scheme that can be devised by Congress.

It is stated in the opinion that none of the 26 cases postponed involve the Pennsylvania Railroad company, which is applying the Pennsylvania law to settle its own cases.
